Result of the Competition for Mrs. Cave's Vocal Pieces: 1st prize, Mr. Comras; 2nd Mr. Palmer.

Owing to the number of entries for Miss L. Yates' class for solo singing on

FRIDAY, MARCH 11, 1892. [One Penny.]

Tuesday, arrangements have been made for another class to commence on Thursday next.

Orchestral Society.—Conductor, Mr. W. R. Cave.—We have vacancies for basses, cellos, violas, cornets, trombones, etc., intending members must apply to Mr. Cave.

Mr. Cave's Prize for Violin Playing.—The prizes consisting of a solo for violin, were contested for on Monday last, and were awarded to 1, Mr. Comras; 2, Mr. Palmer.

The attendances at the Sacred Concert, Organ Recital, and Library, on Sunday last, were 1,234, 1,084, and 1,236 respectively; the number of visitors, therefore, on that day were 3,552.

The Popular Musical Union, under the direction of Mr. Thomas, gave a splendid rendering of Haydn's "Creation" on Saturday last. The soloists were Mrs. Helen Trust, Mr. Rechab Tandy, and Mr. H. Pope.

The Society of Arts Examination in Shorthand will take place April 7th. Shorthand writers wishing to take part in the Examination must send in their names at once to Mr. Horton, who will be pleased to give any further particulars.

Upwards of 50 attended the Sunday afternoon choir on Sunday last, and rendered very efficient help; more volunteers are, however, wanted. Application should be made after either recital to Mr. Jackson, organist, or to Mr. Thomas.

People's Palace Orchestral Society.—Conductor, W. R. Cave.—There are vacancies for violins, violas, cellos and basses, cornets, trombones, etc. Members wishing to join are requested to apply to Mr. Cave on Tuesday or Fridays.

We desire to thank the Handel Society for their concert here on Saturday last. It proved to be one of the best ever held; the chorus and orchestra consisted of over 200 ladies and gentlemen. Mr. Herbert Gladstone, M.P., and the Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour were among the choir.

Civil Service Classes.—We have just been informed that another of our Civil Service students, Mr. D. P. Vaughan, has been successful at the Boy Copyist Examinations held by the Civil Service Commissioners. During this year three of our students have entered the Civil Service as Boy Copyists and one has passed the Boy Clerks' Examination.

People's Palace Old Boys' Harriers.—The run on Saturday last was to Wanstead Park and back (via Temple Mills and Leytonstone), returning by way of Forest Gate and Stratford, starting from the Palace at 4.10, and getting back at 5.55. Only three members attended, viz., J. Bontend, O. H. Warmington, and myself. I hope to see a better attendance next Saturday.

A. J. WELCH, Capt.

Civil Service Classes.—We are very pleased to announce that Mr. W. Mackay, one of our Civil Service Class, has just heard from the Civil Service Commission that he was successful at the last examination for boy clerks. He was tenth on the first list, and obtained 1,493 marks, the candidate at the head of the list only securing 1,493, or 27 more than Mr. Mackay. Mr. Mackay has been a very regular and diligent student, and we wish him every success in his future career.

People's Palace Choral Society.—Conductor, Mr. Orton Bradley, M.A.—Practices are held as usual, on Tuesdays and Fridays, from 8 to 10. We are now practising the "Messiah," and some glees, etc.; we shall shortly begin to practise an opera. Members are reminded that we give Part 2 of "Elijah" on Sunday afternoon at 3.30. We also give a concert in connection with the Early Closing Association about the end of the month. We have vacancies in all parts. Those with good voices and who can read well either from staff or tonic sol-fa notation are requested to apply to the conductor at any practice if they wish to join the society.

J. G. COCKBURN, Hon. Sec.
J. H. THOMAS, Librarian.

I would remind our students who propose sitting at the Society of Arts Examinations this year that entries (2s. 6d.)
Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir,—My attention has been drawn to a letter published in the Journal of February 19th, stating that a sum of money has been made by a certain lady in the Library during the night of January 22nd. I was passing last night through the Library when a certain lady was seen entering the Library by the west entrance, followed by a gentleman dressed in a black suit. The lady was carrying a bag of money, which she placed on a table in the Library, and the gentleman then proceeded to count the money. The amount was found to be £50, and the lady was immediately arrested and taken to the police station.

I trust that the Palace students will still continue to attend evening classes, which may be of great benefit to them.

A. McKENZIE, Hon. Sec.

3. NEW SONG

If it be true you love me not,
Ah! in a flash I see it now,
When these my hands have power to rid
"'So" -
The soft speech of your eyes ?

Sleep and rest, sleep and rest,
While my little one, while my pretty
Why then your low sweet sighs,
Come from the dying moon and blow,

You are not what you seemed.
You mock the joy I dreamed.

Though my love be strong and pure
And it shall not melt away.

PART I.

Nay, none that can compel
You will go against your will.
And you shall be as I am.

6. PART SONG

For love to home will bid me welcome,
When Richard Penlake, and Rebecca, his
As they kiss my native shore,
And they brighten up the glad sun.

And you shall be as I am.

PART II.

For love to home will bid me welcome,
When Richard Penlake, and Rebecca, his
As they kiss my native shore,
And they brighten up the glad sun.

And you shall be as I am.

PART III.

For love to home will bid me welcome,
When Richard Penlake, and Rebecca, his
As they kiss my native shore,
And they brighten up the glad sun.

And you shall be as I am.

PART IV.

For love to home will bid me welcome,
When Richard Penlake, and Rebecca, his
As they kiss my native shore,
And they brighten up the glad sun.

And you shall be as I am.

PART V.

For love to home will bid me welcome,
When Richard Penlake, and Rebecca, his
As they kiss my native shore,
And they brighten up the glad sun.

And you shall be as I am.

PART VI.

For love to home will bid me welcome,
When Richard Penlake, and Rebecca, his
As they kiss my native shore,
And they brighten up the glad sun.

And you shall be as I am.
11. But the Lord thy Maker, who hath stretched forth the heavens, and laid the earth's commandments!

12. For the Children of Israel shall reign over them, and shall possess them; and the Lord shall subdue them before the Lord, the Lord the King.

13. Behold! God the Lord passed by, and the sea was lifted up, and the earth was shaken; but yet the Lord was not in the earthquake.

14. When also the Lord passed through the midst of the sea; and he said, My first born is dead! But God said, No; take it, for it is thy son, Hosea.

15. So God said, If for this son, who is a first born, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

16. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

17. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

18. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

19. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

20. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

21. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

22. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

23. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

24. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

25. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

26. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

27. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

28. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

29. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

30. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

31. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

32. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

33. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

34. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

35. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?

36. And God said, If for a single son, I have spared him; how much more shall I not spare the other children?
