Sentimental persons should not omit to see the little bit of yellow ball dress attached to each ticket. A ticket of admission, and who is supposed to have been at the celebrated ball in the Grosvenor Room, Canton, as a matter of facts, in London, and in consequence, to every street and sold up to pay the shareholders of the Company. At one time in London he was opposed to a bannet, but now, ladies will barely look at a man, unless forced by much luggage. In future, all of us who wish to be immortalized by the photographer, will have to wash our faces before paying him a visit, as every particle of dust or other matter is brought into prominence by the lens. Sister Rose Gertrudis, about whom some fuss was made a short time ago, is about to lay her hands before the Pope. If it is a pity that even good work cannot be done without a struggle.

Ladies often ask what to read, some of the following authors will not fail to give satisfaction—George Eliot, Miss Thurstan, Miss Yonge, Mrs. Gaskell, Miss Carey, Mrs. Oliphant, Mrs. Craik.

It will be remembered by readers of the Journal that in the account referred to above, a description was given of the location of the camp; and that the incidents of each day were made vivid by the many hues of the rainbow, and these ever varying shades were seen at the end of the middle line of tents.

DUMPTON GAP CAMP.

The Palace Journal of July 23rd and 30th contained an account of the Boys' Camp at Dumpton Gap, near Ramsgate, which has been selected. It has been thought that readers of the Journal might be interested in seeing represented pictorially what has up to now only been described verbally. During the encampment the sketching parties, under the super-

The large compound stood the cook-house, and cooking
